"We are pleased that we were able to consummate the exchange transactions and announce the redemption of the remaining Senior Notes," commented Robert K. Julian, Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer. "In connection with these exchange and redemption transactions, the Company expects to incur in the second half of 2015 approximately $2.4 million of additional expense representing transaction costs as well as the acceleration of certain unamortized expenses. A substantial majority of these additional costs will be non-cash. More importantly, the retirement of the Senior Notes will be accretive to earnings in 2016 and will increase cash flows by approximately $5.0 million per year. Following the retirement of the Senior Notes, the Company will not have any long-term debt. The retirement of the Senior Notes represents another important milestone in our strategic plans."
